Aesculap Sutures

Cost Savings Without Compromise

Rethink your sutures

At Aesculap, a B. Braun Company, we have been perfecting the art of producing high performance wound closure products starting with the first commercial sterile suture in 1908. Aesculap sutures are used all over the world for everything from basic laceration repair all the way up to highly demanding applications such as Plastics and cardiovascular valve repair.

Reduce your costs, not your quality

Over 100 years of suture expertise has allowed us to optimize our production process so we can provide cost savings over other manufacturers without compromising quality or clinical performance.

A suture thread is only as good as the needle attached to it

That's why Aesculap has a relentless pursuit of the perfect needle for each surgical application. The latest entry to our portfolio is the Dermaslide™ skin closure needle featuring a unique design that provides excellent sharpness pass after pass, high precision, and outstanding needle holder stability.
